Gives Radio Talk For Trustee Plan

Lessing J. Rosenwald, president of the American Council of Judaism, called for a trusteeship over Palestine, implemented if necessary by force, and at the same time termed partition a mistake there was still time to correct.

In an address broadcast over WCBS, Mr. Rosenwald also asked for an end to the "abuse of, and political threats against" President Truman, Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. He said they were "acting on an infinitely complex problem in accordance with their constitutional oaths and the dictates of their conscience."

"Against the darkening shadows of a dark world scene," Mr. Rosenwald said, "instead of frankness and courage, we have had propaganda, legalistic hair-splitting, words of ambiguous meaning, pressure groups.

"The time has come for plain talk!"

Mr. Rosenwald contended that it was "sheer nonsense to pretend that nothing has happened in the past four months to give us cause to reconsider our position," and declared:

"It's time to expose the ballyhoo about 'oil' as something sinister or shameful. We know that oil is a vital product, essential to our peacetime economy, to our national security in war and to our national program for recovery abroad. It is utmost irresponsibility to ignore its importance.

"It is time to call a halt to the silly double talk of those politicians who are more concerned with assuring themselves re-election than with determining a serious, responsible United States policy.

"And the time has come to put [illegible] dangerous claims of [illegible] to reward [illegible]

[illegible] ago the Anglo-American [illegible] on Palestine had rolled [illegible] partition as a solution to the problems of the Holy Land. He noted that Bartley C. Crum and Dr. James G. McDonald, two of the present advocates of partition who were on the committee, had opposed partition at that time.

"Of course, a recommendation for partition had been agreed upon Nov. 29," he declared. "But if a mistake was made, now is the time to correct it. The United States will emerge the stronger for having the courage to admit and correct its mistakes.

"Nothing is gained by blindly pursuing a false and dangerous course of action—nothing but dis-

J.D.C. Spends Largest Sum

A record total of $73,841,500 was spent during 1947 by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee for aid to Jews in twenty European countries and other parts of the world, according to the Committee's report for last year. This, the report says, is the largest sum ever spent in a single year by a voluntary agency.

The program, which includes North Africa, the Near East and China as well as Europe, provided relief, medical care, child welfare service and work opportunities for Jews abroad. Executive Vice-Chairman Moses A. Leavitt reported that 103,000 Jews were enabled to become partly or entirely self-supporting as a result of the Committee's reconstruction efforts. Direct relief included 85,000,000 pounds of foodstuffs.

Mr. Leavitt said that the Committee assisted 30,000 European refugees to emigrate and "begin new lives in new lands." Of this total, 8,000 came to the United States; 12,000 went to Palestine; 5,000 to Latin American nations, and the remainder to Canada and other countries.

In another part of the report, written before the United States had reversed its policy on the partition of Palestine, Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, chairman of the European Executive Council, expressed the hope that 75,000 Jews would find permanent new homes in Palestine during the current year. Dr. Schwartz believes that the rate of recovery of Europe's Jews depends largely on such emigration.

In child care, assistance was given to 187,000 boys and girls. Included in this part of the program were maintenance of 324 institutions for orphans and educational facilities which enabled [illegible] Jewish children to attend [illegible]

[illegible] boys' quota [illegible] Day. Funds are derived from the $250,000,000 United Jewish Appeal campaign. Plans for 1948 call for a minimum expenditure of $98,547,000.

Edward M. Warburg, chairman of the American Joint Distribution Committee, and Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, vice president, returned from a Paris conference of European representatives with the report that relief needs in Europe have increased.

Mr. Warburg said that the conference found that the standard of living among displaced persons had fallen off to the extent that it was necessary to provide additional funds to make up deficiencies, particularly in diet.

New Zionist Text Omits Bitter Part

The General Zionist Council issued a revised declaration of independence, which the Jewish Agency for Palestine handed to consular representatives in Jerusalem.

The new text is understood to have been written to meet widespread criticism of the recrimination reflected in the original, adopted in Tel Aviv April 12, which contained bitter references to British "domination." Agency officials said the original version was not official.

Following is new text:

We have decided, relying on the authority of the Zionist movement and the support of the entire Jewish people, that upon termination of the mandatory regime there shall be an end of foreign rule in Palestine and that the governing body of the Jewish State shall come into being.

The state which the Jewish people will set up in its own country will guarantee justice, freedom and equality for all inhabi[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [

Jews throughout the world are now celebrating the festival of Passover commemorating our freedom from Egyptian bondage 3500 years ago.

During this Zeman Cherusainu, volunteer workers of the Montreal Jewish National Fund Council will call at Jewish homes in the community to clear the J.N.F. boxes. It is expected that our people will respond in the spirit of the hour for Geulaat Haaretz and demonstrate at this historic period of our history, their solidarity with the Yishuv in Eretz Israel.

An Appeal To Jews In Canada

There has been a paralysis of the regular support rendered to our Institutions in the Holy Land.

The problem of maintenance is becoming more acute from day to day and calls for an immediate and radical solution.

Have commiseration—accelerate and augment your support in order to enable us to carry on our holy task. Without your kind and unfailing assistance, our Institutions will have to face undue sufferings and hardships.

Translates Book By Sholom Aleichem

Schocken Books, 342 Madison Avenue, New York, have just published Inside Kasrilevke, by Sholom Aleichem, translated by Dr. Isidore Goldstick, of London, Ont., a leader in the Zionist Organization. Inside Kasrilevke is laid in the mythical village which is the scene of Sholom Aleichem's stories.

To write for the people but not to write down to them was the goal which Sholom Aleichem set for himself and achieved. Born in Russia in 1859, he wrote first in Hebrew and Russian before he found himself in Yiddish. Then regarded by intellectuals as a popular jargon, identified with the illiterate masses, Yiddish became with Sholom Aleichem the medium of a great literature. Both as writer and editor, Sholom Aleichem was directly responsible for persuading many of his Jewish contemporaries to write in Yiddish.

His enormous success came quite quickly. Leaving Russia after the Kiev pogrom of 1905 of which he was a witness, he spent much of the next nine years in extensive lecture tours of the United States and Europe. In 1914 he emigrated with his family to the new world. When he died in 1918 in New York, 150,000 people attended his funeral. He wrote five novels, 300 stories, many plays; his Works (in Yiddish) run to 28 volumes. His work has been translated into a score of languages. Over three million copies of his works were sold in Russia between 1917 and 1942, where the acclaim of Maxim Gorky and Leo Tolstoy early assured him an eager audience.

When Sholom Aleichem first came to New York, Mark Twain met him. "I wanted to meet you," he said, "because I understand that I am the American Sholom Aleichem." In turn, long ago it became a cliche to call Sholom Aleichem the Jewish Mark Twain. He has also been compared to Dickens, with whom he shares the gift of characterization of odd types. The great Jewish humorist once said of himself: "I suffered, may you not be afflicted with it, from a childhood disease: I was constantly moved to laughter."

If you are contemplating an hotel vacation this summer, you can easily find a resort on this page to suit your individual taste and purse.

Donate Machinery For Palestine

Two consignments of machinery and other agricultural and industrial equipment were shipped to Palestine during March by the American Section of the World Confederation of General Zionists, it was announced by Dr. Israel Goldstein, chairman of the World Confederation. This equipment was made available through the Palestine Equipment Project of the Zionist Organization of America. These shipments included a gift from the Esco Foundation of New York, consisting of tractors, plows, scrapers, and other agricultural machinery, and industrial machinery donated by the Districts and Regions of the ZOA in all parts of the U.S. Following a visit to Miami Beach by Itzhak J. Karpman, executive director of the World Confederation, a Miami Beach Equipment Project was organized. A full carload of equipment, donated by N. H. Hankoff, of Miami Beach; and 500 beds, donated by another Miami Beach Zionist have been shipped to Palestine. Several additional carloads of equipment from West Palm Beach, Orlando and Jacksonville, were donated and are en route to the Holy Land.

THE ONLY SAFE MILK

Medical science has proven through intensive research that, pasteurized milk is the only safe milk. Pasteurization elimiates bacteria which cause such milk-borne diseases as bovine tuberculosis, typhoid fever, undulant fever, septic sore throat, paratyphoid and dysentery. Pasteurization does no harm to milk's nutritive value.

Asks U.S. Permit Recruiting

A resolution that the U.S. Federal government permit recruiting and enlistment of American volunteers to fight with Jewish forces in Palestine was adopted by the thirteenth annual convention of the New York County Council of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States. The convention, attended by 300 delegates, was held at the Master Institute of United Arts, in New York.

Criticizing the government for reversing "its original policy in support of an independent Jewish state," the resolution said that the change in policy was caused by the actions of "private and greedy interests of American oil imperialists." There was a prolonged debate over the use of the word "dishonorable" in describing the present United States position on partition.

Hugo Rogers, Borough President of Manhattan, a convention delegate and one of the principal speakers, said that Jewish war veterans "must go beyond negative work in combatting anti-Semitism." He said that they should show that Jews are ready to take their places with others in government.

Metropolitan Life Touches New High

New high marks in the number of policyholders, amount of life insurance in force, and payments to policyholders were attained by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Canada during 1947, Glen J. Spahn, in charge of the company's Canadian operations, announced at Ottawa concurrently with the publishing of Metropolitan's annual statement.

The number of policyholders in Canada at the end of 1947 was 2,340,000, showing that approximately one out of five Canadians is a Metropolitan policyholder. The amount of life insurance that they held was $2,083,391,707 compared with $1,837,785,490 in 1946. The 1947 statement shows that 58% of this total is owned by Ordinary policyholders, 31% by Industrial policyholders and 11% by Group policyholders.

The amount of paid-for life insurance issued during 1947 was $209,634,649, a figure which carried Metropolitan's Canadian business in force beyond the two-billion mark for the first time in its 75 years of operating in Canada.

Payments to Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries last year amounted to $36,222,913 in death claims, matured policies, dividends and other payments. Payments were made at the rate of $343.61 a minute of each business day, and of the total amount 69% was paid to living policyholders.

In this connection, Mr. Spahn pointed out that the total amount that Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada in 1872, plus the amount now invested in Canada, exceeds the total premiums received from Canadians by more than $306,000,000.

Metropolitan's total investments in Canada at the end of 1947 amounted to $480,303,977. Of this amount, 51% is in Dominion of Canada Bonds. Since the close of the war Metropolitan's new investments have gone increasingly to help meet the needs of industry and the community, just as they were doing before the war.

At the end of 1947, Metropolitan's assets for its entire operations in Canada and the United States stood at $3,648,422,601. These assets, of which $3,376,921,624 were in Canadian and United States government bonds, were held to assure fulfilment of obligations to policyholders, beneficiaries, and others amounting to $3,048,586,345, with general surplus funds amounting to $[illegible] which represented about 8% percent of the company's obligations.

Chiefly because of the decline in the rate of interest earned on investments, Metropolitan is revising dividend scales for Ordinary and Industrial policies. This involves a reduction in dividends in many cases. In spite of this, however, the amount reserved for dividends to policyholders payable in 1948 was $141,215,117 which is a new high total for the company. This is due mainly to the increase in the amount of business in force. Of this amount, Ordinary policyholders will receive $64,907,117, Industrial policyholders $45,655,000, Group policyholders (excluding accident and health) $22,725,000, and Accident and Health policyholders $7,928,000. Including the declaration for 1948, Metropolitan will have paid to policyholders in the form of dividends a total of $2,644,945,636.

As Metropolitan's business in Canada, as well as in the United States, has touched new high points, so the company's efforts to improve health have continued at their peak. In Canada during 1947, a total of 234,835 nursing visits was made to those insured under Metropolitan Industrial, Intermediate and Group policies. In addition, the company took part in 54 Canadian health campaigns, and over 1,500,000 pamphlets on health and safety were distributed.

Addressing a Conservative rally in Manchester, Winston Churchill estimated that delay in surrendering Britain's mandate over Palestine had cost $800,000,000. He recalled that he had recommended that the mandate be given up.

Would Like Modern Sanhedrin

Rabbi Louis Epstein, speaking at the Jewish Theological Seminary, 3080 Broadway, New York, at a rabbinical conference on Jewish law, expressed hope that a modern Sanhedrin, or supreme judicial body, would come into existence with autonomous Jewish life in Palestine.

"I hope that such an august body will not resort to the relief method of alleviating legal inequities, but will aim at fundamental reconstruction in the manner of our early sages," he said. "We shall look toward this legislative body to set aright our perplexing marriage laws in a manner commensurate with the seriousness of our problem."

The conference was sponsored by the Rabbinical Assembly of America.

Great 'Cellist And Star Pupil Meet Again

Gregor Piatigorsky, the 'cellist, received a telephone message in Philadelphia that Lew Aronson, his star pupil of pre-war days in Berlin had arrived in New York, a survivor of privations in four German concentration camps.

"I'll be right over," said Mr. Piatigorsky.

Some two hours later the reunion took place in the lobby of the Windsor Hotel, 100 West Fifty-eighth Street, New York, with hotel guests looking on, somewhat puzzled. Mr. Piatigorsky embraced his protege amid a torrent of joyous greetings in German, which was presently translated into English.

Mr. Aronson, thirty-seven, and his wife, Nina Bukova, a dancer, had arrived in New York on the Marine Marlin from Germany, under the sponsorship of the United States Service for New Americans, a welfare agency financed by the United Jewish Appeal.

It was an official of the agency who, learning of Mr. Aronson's pre-war friendship for the world-famous cellist, had called him at his Philadelphia home.

Mr. Aronson, after studying with Mr. Piatigorsky at the Berlin Conservatory of Music for four years, was first cellist in the Libau Philharmonic Orchestra in Latvia until 1940. He lived in the Riga Ghetto until 1944, when the Germans forced all ghetto survivors into forced labor in concentration camps. Mr. Aronson had long since been deprived of his cello, and his hands were toughened by labor as a dockhand and other tasks at machines. He was shipped from one concentration camp to another, in Poland and eastern Germany. His parents and sister died in concentration camps.

When the war ended, he joined the armies of displaced persons trudging westward. Their "passport," he said, was the striped jacket of the German concentration camps. Finally he reached Berlin and was established in a displaced-persons camp in the American zone. He devoted the next three years to learning English and regaining his skill as a cellist. He also composed several works which reflect his war experiences—such as "Four Jewish Pictures for Symphony Orchestra."

Touring other displaced persons camps with a group of other musicians, he met Miss Bukova, a Polish dancer, also a member of the troop. They were married in the Berlin displaced-persons camp.

They hope to become American citizens, says the New York Herald Tribune.

MODERATION
• • • • THE WISDOM OF MATURITY

True, we are a young country. In less than a century we have risen from colonial youth to nationhood of a stature enjoyed by no other people of our numbers.

Canada has earned this. Through the years we have kept our sense of values . . . been moderate in our pleasures . . . moderate in our thinking.

Today, we continue to bear ourselves with the self-respect of a moderate people. We are moderate in our spending, in our thinking . . . moderate in our pleasures, moderate in the enjoyment of whisky . . . moderate in all things.

We are young, yes. But we have come of age, for moderation is the wisdom of maturity.

THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM

Swedish Jews Must Belong To Congregations

By Gladys Wolff, Of Stockholm

The number of persons belonging to the Swedish Jewish congregations is now about 6,000 to 7,000. They are Jews of Swedish nationality only. There are five congregations, and those of Stockholm, Gothenburg, and Malmo are the most important.

In addition to the above mentioned congregations, Sweden gives hospitality to 3,000 Jews of former German and Austrian nationality. They are now being gradually naturalised and will consequently become members of the Swedish congregations.

Apart from these groups, Sweden has still within her borders 7,000 refugees from the camps in Germany. The total number of Jews in Sweden has, during the last decade increased nearly 200%, from about 6,000 to about 17,000.

The congregations of Stockholm, Gothenburg, and Malmo have their own synagogues and Rabbis. The numbers of their members are: in Stockholm, 4,000; in Gothenburg, 600; and in Malmo, 1,000. There are also scattered in the other towns of Sweden about 500 to 600 Swedish Jews. Only a handful live in the countryside.

The Jewish citizens of Sweden enjoy the same rights as all other Swedish subjects. Sweden still has a State religion. Every Swede has to belong to the State Church or to some other religious community recognized by the State. The Jewish congregations are recognized as such.

Consequently all Swedish Jews were compelled to belong to one of the Jewish congregations and to pay taxes that the congregations have the right to impose.

Each congregation has elected four or five well-known members, to form its governing body. The members of these governing bodies can be compared with the ministers of a state, each member having a department — social, educational, financial or synagogal. One member is the head, or president.

Being too big for such meetings, the congregation of Stockholm elects a representative body of twenty-five men and women by a system of proportional representation. They remain in office for a period of four years. The community is divided into three parties, the Liberals, the Orthodox, and the Zionists, each of which nominates candidates to the body of representatives. After the last election, the Liberals obtained thirteen seats, the Orthodox eight, the Zionists four.

The Stockholm congregation and that of Gothenburg are of the old Liberals type, with Services somewhat similar to those of the Berliner Einheitsgemeinde. The last thirty years, have, however, brought about a change. The old families are gradually dying out. The new members of the community are immigrants of different periods, and the structure is now changing into a more orthodox pattern. The Malmo community has always been very orthodox.

As to the different youth movements within the Swedish congregations, a tendency to Zionism seems to be the most marked at present. Religious questions do not, just now, attract the majority of the young Jewish people of Sweden. The Progressive Liberal movement of to-day was, until recently, practically unknown to the young people. A small group has now come together to start discussing Progressive Judaism.

The Swedish Jews have not suffered any direct form of anti-Semitism. Signs of latent anti-Semitism are, however, sometimes felt amongst certain classes. His Majesty the King, the Royal House, and the government have, as leaders, shown great generosity and hospitality to Jewish refugees, especially to those from Denmark, Finland, and Norway, and to those from the concentration camps. These facts are already too well known to be specially dwelt upon in this short paper, but they will always be gratefully remembered.

Welfare work for the refugees has dominated the activities of the Swedish congregations during the last ten years. In Stockholm a staff of sixty people are specially occupied with this work. The financial burden is so great that the small congregations cannot carry them alone, and they have received generous help both from the Swedish state and from international organizations. During the period 1933-46, 7,500,000 Swedish crowns were administrated by the Stockholm congregation for the benefit of the refugees. Of this sum, 3,300,000 Swedish crowns were provided by the Stockholm congregation alone.

She wore an Empire gown of white moire taffeta, and white accessories, and carried a cascade bouquet of pastel spring flowers. Arthur Pinansky acted as best man for his brother. Mrs. Pinansky, the groom's mother, wore an aquamarine-blue crepe gown, a black hat, trimmed with aquamarine-blue flowers, black accessories, and a corsage of orchids. The bride and groom left for an extended motor trip to Virginia; Washington, D. C.; and New York, the former travelling in a grey suit, red and green straw sailor hat, green accessories, and a grey lamb jacket. They will reside in Portland, Maine. The bride is a graduate of McGill University's School for Teachers.

The marriage of Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Useden, 5436 Esplanade Avenue, to Fred, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Marcus, 5236 Westbury Avenue, took place at Chevra Kadisha Synagogue, on April 11, at half-past six o'clock, Dr. C. Denburg, Rabbi, officiating, assisted by Rabbi A. Kenner and Cantor A. Matta. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin period gown, with an off-the-shoulder neckline, trimmed with tulle, a fitted bodice, long sleeves coming to points at the wrists, and a full skirt ending in a long train. Her veil of tulle was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms, and she carried a white prayer book with an orchid and white streamers. Mrs. Jack Rabkin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, in an ice-blue crepe gown, with a bustle back, the bodice studded with tiny blue and white rhinestones, and matching gloves. Her high off-the-face headdress was of blue tulle with tiny blue flowers, and she carried a cascade of pink roses and snapdragons, with large pink bow ending in streamers. Anne Kenner, as flower girl, wore a blue satin, off-the-shoulder dress with hoop skirt, and a sequin headdress, with tulle trimming, and carried a basket of rose petals, which she dropped on the way to the altar. ANGLES ON EYESTRAIN

Reading habits have an important effect on one's eyes, medical men say. Continuous reading of poor print, improper lighting or poor posture are common causes of eye strain. Optical specialists say lighting should be sufficient to produce comfortable seeing. Good lighting means the even distribution of a pleasing, soft light. There should be no harmful glare and no deep shadows.

Salomon Kutcher, General Zionist leader of Mexico, announced in New York the allocation of 75,000 pesos (about $15,000) by the General Zionist organization in Mexico as its initial contribution to the General Zionist Constructive Enterprises Fund in Palestine. Mr. Kutcher attended a conference of the American Section of the World Confederation of General Zionists. He is president of the United Shekel Board of Mexico; vice-president of the Mexican Jewish National Fund.

ester. Its true friends know that the United Nations will be stronger to the degree that it is given the greatest measure of freedom within its charter, including the freedom to correct its own errors."

Mr. Rosenwald conceded that it probably would be necessary to implement trusteeship as well as partition with force.

"But if force must be used," he declared, "let it be used for the establishment of unity and harmony; not for divisiveness and the perpetuation of hatreds and hostilities.

"Let it be used to uphold the hands of the moderates among the Jews and Arabs in Palestine. Not force to back up the extremists—of either faction."

Mr. Rosenwald suggested that the U.S. examine the ends for which international force would be used and said:

"Let us also admit—and act accordingly—that an overriding national interest is involved in the Palestine solution—significant for world economic recovery, significant for world peace. These are not to be trifled with. Not by politicians seeking public office. Not by pressure groups seeking to attain narrow, partisan ends.

"We need and must have a sound bipartisan policy."

Mr. Rosenwald declared that the moment called for a United Nations trusteeship "that will be brief or prolonged, depending upon the time it takes for the people of Palestine to come to terms, to exhibit statesmanship, understanding and conciliation."

"For just so long as the two groups in Palestine demonstrate by their actions their inability to live together in neighborly peace they cannot be entrusted with the power of an independent, sovereign state," he declared.

He said that they should have sovereignty when they have demonstrated their ability to live together, and that meanwhile, under trusteeship, full provision should be made "by the trustee for the maximum, legal immigration of displaced persons to that country."

The Food Value of Livers and Tongues Is Negligible!

The Christian housewife buys very little beef liver and tongues

The food value of beef liver and tongues is less than fifty per cent of the food value of beef. Livers and tongues have about 550 calories to the pound, while beef has between 1,100 and 1,550 calories to the pound.

THE LARGE DEMAND BY JEWISH WOMEN FOR LIVER AND TONGUES IS THEREFORE VOID OF LOGIC AND REASON

This unreasonable demand for livers and tongues is undermining the Jewish religious principle of Kashruth. It has created a shortage of Kosher livers and Kosher tongues. Trying to satisfy their customers, and not being in a position to meet their demand, some Kosher butchers try to sell traifah livers and tongues as Kosher.

All this is a result of the senseless run for Kosher livers and tongues which in the traifah trade is worth only half of what is being paid by the Jewish customer.

By Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi

Maintaining The Vision

Moses, the greatest of leaders, did not have an easy time with our biblical ancestors. Holy writ records that the people placed many obstacles in the path of their leader. The Bible again and again records condemnations of the people because they failed to understand and appreciate Moses. Whenever a problem presented itself the people lacked the vision to tackle that problem and instead they attacked the leader. Moses kept the vision and was unyielding in his loyalty to ideals and to his God.

We imagine, therefore, that Aaron, the brother of Moses, was the more popular man for he yielded to the people and gave them a golden calf. The great leader of Israel, realizing that his task was onerous, therefore, by Divine inspiration selected unto himself seventy elders to help him lead the people from slavery to freedom. But scripture records that out of these seventy only two remained to prophesy while sixty-eight were not constant in their prophesy. They only prophesied for a while and "they did so no more." (Numbers, Chapter 11:25.) Only Eldad and Medad were constant in their prophesy and kept their vision.

The tragedy with life is that all of us at some time have visions and dreams but fail to maintain our vision. We do not possess the capacity to hold on to our ideals. What man or woman is there who has not in his or her youth dreamt of the higher and the finer? But, then, with the march of years something has happened and the vision has faded away. In our personal lives, whether we are in professions or business, we had hours of vision, in particular in the days of our youth.

All of us can look back to such noble hours. We said as we pursued our studies in medicine that we should not be mere mediocre doctors but should follow the pattern of a great Osler. But then life did something to us, and we remained in the category of the average physician. We studied law and jurisprudence and hoped to follow in the footsteps of a Brandeis and a Marshall but something happened and we became mere fee-collectors. In our youth we had dreams to battle for the right and truth and to give our all in championing righteousness. Yes, then we had glimpses of goodness and beauty and we marvelled at works of art and music of the spheres.

But, what happened? Our visions faded and we became mere conventional drudges, living corpses, and prisoners of the body, of our passions and our pleasures. How well may we cry with the Psalmist of old, "Bring my soul out of prison." Behold, the men and women who are imprisoned by their possessions, their homes, their wealth. Behold, the men and women who are prisoners of habits and not masters of their souls. Behold, the men and women who are the prisoners of the closed mind. Their minds are locked to new ideas. They cry "let well enough alone."

Yet, the hope of the world rests with the Eldads and Medads who prophesy constantly and who maintain the vision amidst all circumstances and conditions. Roland Hayes, the great Negro singer, kept his vision. Though he knew well that as a coloured man his chance in the world of art and music was a precarious one, he feared not. He recalled the admonition of his coloured teacher who urged him ever to keep his heart right and his spirit divinely disciplined, then no one in all the world would ever be able to hurt him. This is the secret of Hayes' great achievement in the realm of music. He kept his vision.

Recently, Dr. Edward Condon, head of the United States Bureau of Standards, has come under severe attack by the modern witch-hunters who seek to assassinate the character of men of great stature and nobility. Dr. Condon has kept his vision and bears with dignity the attacks upon him. A group of a hundred and twenty-six scientists tendered a dinner to Dr. Condon, testifying to his leadership and to his dedication to the highest. He told those present that it is not really as hard to bear the attacks as some might imagine "because it brings out so vividly a realization of how very many very decent people there are in the world."

If nations had only kept their vision, what a finer world all of us would now be living in. All of us recall that in 1918 the leaders of nations had a vision of a League of Nations. People them throughout the world rejoiced that at last the hour had arrived when war would be no more and nations would beat their swords into plough-shares. But, then, this vision faded and we only learned in World War II that World War I was a prelude to the second world struggle, in which millions gave their lives to save civilization.

Following World War II there was built the United Nations with its vision of the One World! But what is happening to our One World? Behold, how the Big Powers are again guilty of double-mindedness in their dealings with the little peoples of the earth! What hope is there for an enduring and lasting peace? Must mankind once more suffer tragedy and must our civilization be threatened to annihilation by atomic power? God forbid!

Man has yet a chance to save himself and his world from complete destruction. If only the leaders of nations and peoples everywhere would maintain the vision and translate that vision into reality that the One World must now be firmly built upon the foundations of the Judaic-Christian tradition and thus the Kingdom of God be speeded upon earth.

J.D.C. SPENDS

He said that there was much discouragement among European Jews over the Palestine situation and particularly the lack of legislation in the United States to enlarge immigration quotas for DP's. Rabbi Stern remarked that the load of the J. D. C. had been increased tremendously because of the high cost of provisions. He said that the other principal points discussed at the conference were reconstruction of homes throughout Europe, the building of small trade organizations, food, child care, medical care for the tuberculous and care of the aged.

"Sometimes when people consume me,
I fall them without remorse
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an easier."

With the letter which the Local Council of Women of Montreal sent to Premier Duplessis, all the protests seem to be in about the remark of the Honorable Laurent Barre, Quebec Minister of Agriculture, in the Legislature, that during the war, "Our children were thrown into the hands of infamous Jewish medical examiners who regaled themselves with naked Canadian flesh."

Jewish protests were made by the Canadian Jewish Congress, the Brigadier Frederick Kisch Branch of the Canadian Legion, and the Montreal Clinical Society which represents more than one hundred and fifty Jewish doctors. Jewish protests, no matter how good, are routine business, a matter of form, for satisfaction, for the record, and to answer the question: Well, why don't you say something? At the same time, this column, delayed by work in connection with the Passover issue of the Review, does not intend to pass up the opportunity of referring to Mr. Barre as a stooge for cowards with bigger fish to fry than the Jews, and a detriment to that progression in democracy to which this country and the province of Quebec claim to be committed.

The protests from Christians, French and English, were forthright and heart-warming. The Montreal Anglican Fellowship for Social Action, through Dr. J. C. Flanagan, said in part: "As Christians we note with particular alarm and disgust the reported statement of a responsible Minister of His Majesty's Provincial Government, Mr. Barre, that his son had been submitted to the 'indignity' of a medical examination by a 'Jewish' doctor, and that as a consequence that son had been a victim of permanent illness.... If reported accurately, we deplore this bitter outburst of anti-Christian feeling in the Legislature, which savors of the worst elements of a blood and soil religion, and also deplore the fact that Premier Duplessis, who was present in the Legislature during this tirade, did not see fit to rebuke his Minister and call for a withdrawal of the inflammatory and bitter statement."

The Community Council of Notre Dame de Grace, of which Mrs. D. W. Heywood is president, passed a resolution which was sent to Premier Duplessis, referring to Mr. Barre's statement as "tending to promote anti-racial bitterness" and placing itself "on record as being horrified that such a base, senseless, and obviously untrue charge should have been made, particularly by one who holds a portfolio of great responsibility. Further, since one form of intolerance should receive no more consideration than another, we do now call upon the Prime Minister and the other members of the Provincial Legislature to dissociate themselves without further delay from such a statement, in the interests of the democracy we prize so highly and which the Provincial Government, through its Prime Minister, has so fondly and constantly declared its intention of preserving at all costs."

The letter from the Local Council of Women, representing Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish women's organizations of Montreal, said: "We respectfully submit that we are shocked by the lack of restraint shown by the Minister in public debate and we are grieved by the animosity which appeared to move him. In many countries today men do not have the opportunity to speak freely in a constitutional assembly. We therefore [illegible] Canada we are especially bound to preserve our great privilege in the spirit in which it originated and to hold before our young people the principles of responsibility to speak truth and to respect the dignity of our fellow men upon which that privilege rests."

These things are well said and show perfect understanding of the fact that Mr. Barre's vulgar and violent assault on the Jews is more than just that. It has not been repudiated because it has value as an appeal to the lowest instincts of the masses and lingers in the air as an echo of mediaevalism. This province, where kicking the Jews around for no fault of theirs is as easy as shooting fish and a lot easier than solving the housing problem or reducing the high cost of living, is the only place in the English-speaking world where a Minister would so disgrace his position and his people as Mr. Barre did. However, such an act, which panders to the exploited and frustrated masses in their need for a scapegoat and fosters group hatred in their children, is easily recognized as a diversionary tactic by an increasing number of citizens and may yet serve as a boomerang as far as vote-getting is concerned.

There are many fine people in the province of Quebec who must feel uneasy over the destructive attitude of a Minister offering such a poor example of behavior. It is an incentive which awaits some propitious moment to bring out gangsterism and vandalism. Meantime it fosters the bad feeling that keeps an assured supply of public men on hand to make a disreputable name for themselves in Jew-baiting and witch-hunting. Mr. Barre has established himself as the coarse politician who said that Jewish medical examiners for the forces regaled themselves with Canadian flesh, and who was held up to public scorn by many fellow-citizens for doing it. He is welcome to such a way of going down in history.

He regretted that the report of the Anglo-American Committee was rejected in 1946, and warned that on a cease-fire order hinged the fate of Jerusalem.

"With all the talk about Jerusalem as the Holy City," he asserted, "it's neutralization, its importance for the world, we cannot understand why it has been left to its fate. If Jerusalem is to be saved, action is required. I have come to urge this. I know I can speak for the majority of the Jewish population of Jerusalem in this."

He said the trusteeship would give Jews and Arabs the chance to "work things out together."

"It is false," he added, "to say Jews and Arabs cannot live together. They do live together and will live together tomorrow.

"What is required is that the major objective of the trusteeship must be Jewish-Arab self-government. The British Mandatory Regime never gave the Jews and Arabs this chance of self-government. Sporadic attempts were made. But this self-government together, equally shared by Jews and Arabs, was never the main objective of the Mandatory's policy."

Dr. Magnes declared that he knew of hardly an Arab who favored partition.

"I have come," he said, "to persuade those responsible for decisions to take this historic chance. Understanding and cooperation would be in the offing."

Dr. and Mrs. Magnes were greeted here by their son, Dr. Jonathan Magnes, a scientist; Dr. Maurice Hexter, executive director of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies; and James Marshall, son of the late Jewish leader, Louis Marshall.

But the atmosphere was far from funereal. On the contrary, each of 12,000 spectators who had come to honor a relative, or often a whole family, seemed filled with joyous pinrhels of his own contributing Rls. The crowd seemed to be permeated with the idea put forward by a speaker who said, "The sacrifice of the dead commands us to live on. Nothing has and nothing will destroy the Jewish people."

normal working hours.

The mother of two children, 10 and 8 years of age, Mrs. Comay said that even the school children were indoctrinated now by the frequent gun fights and had learned to hug the hedges and buildings on their way to school. The curricula have been changed a bit, she added, for the outbreaks have made it impossible to continue outdoor gymnastics.

Jerusalem has become a shooting gallery, according to Mrs. Comay, and sometimes the shooting is without purpose. She told of an incident four weeks ago in Rehavia, the residential section in Jerusalem's suburb, when she had stood in a doorway to duck a sudden fusillade. Another woman sought shelter with her, but after waiting twenty minutes declared she was worried about a child at home and was going to take a [illegible]

During the eleven-day siege, when Jerusalem was cut off from food shipments and contact with the world, many of the families were reduced to eating meals made of thistle leaves and a kind of grass grown in the fields.

When the Arabs cut the pipelines into the city, the Jewish community went without water for five days. Every bit of water had to be hoarded for cooking and drinking, and consequently there was no washing permitted, Mrs. Comay recalled.

She is shocked by what she calls the indifference of people outside of Jerusalem over the havoc being done to the holy places revered by Jews, Christians and Mohammedans. She declared that every grenade explosion and bomb burst shifts or weakens many historic walls and structures. Mrs. Comay noted that the 500-year-old Hurva Synagogue was already gravely damaged, but that apparently nobody cared very much as it was "so young."

The New Palestine Proposal Sidesteps Controversial Issues

The New York Times says:

The newest American plan for a settlement of the Palestine dispute is officially described by our delegation to the United Nations as "a working paper" only. It is "not to be regarded as a formal United States proposal." Rather, it merely embodies certain "tentative suggestions which it is hoped will stimulate suggestions from other delegations." So elaborate a disavowal of a firm purpose seems likely to arouse fresh doubts about the ultimate American position. And the highly tentative nature of the whole proposal is further emphasized by the fact that the plan itself, providing for a "temporary" United Nations trusteeship over all of Palestine, sidesteps all the more controversial issues involved—such as immigration and land policy—by referring these questions to a newly created Governor General of settlement.

Though the proposed trusteeship is thus described as "temporary," and though the working paper specifically recommends that it be established without prejudice to the rights and claims of either Jews or Arabs "or to the character of the eventual political settlement," it seems clear that the plan in its present form would discard for all practical purposes the solution of the problem previously favored by our Government—namely, partition. This is because the trusteeship would remain in force until the Palestinian Jewish and Arab communities had agreed to an ultimate settlement, either through their representatives in a new Palestinian legislature or by the majority decision of both communities in a direct plebiscite, and because the continued opposition of the Arab community to any settlement based on partition may be taken for granted.

The American proposal would thus involve an apparently indefinitely continuing trusteeship, under which peace between the two communities would have to be maintained by the presence of some neutralizing force. That this force would have to take the form of troops provided by one or more foreign Powers the American plan tacitly admits. But on the question of which Powers would provide such troops the plan is silent, and Mr. Austin's supplementary statement on this point is limited to a declaration that while we will contribute troops if other countries also do so, at the request of the U. N., we are not prepared to act alone.

Granting the hard facts of conflicting Arab and Zionist nationalism, it has been clear for some time that only some overpowering outside force could impose a peaceful settlement in Palestine. The questions still to be answered are who will provide that force and whether, as now seems probable, a trusteeship will not require an even larger force than would be needed for partition.
